

Mississippi Association of County Agricultural Agents

History

1936 - 2001

Revised November 2002

PREFACE

This brief history of the Mississippi Association of County Agricultural Agents (MACAA) was originally published in 1977 and is being up-dated through 2001 with this revision.

On December 6, 1972, President Sam Dyar appointed a committee to prepare an association history. This committee consisted of George A. Mullendore, chairman; Graham L. Hales; and Duane Rosenkrans, Jr.

These individuals spent many hours assembling and writing this history. Graham Hales was a logical choice and immensely helpful in putting together this history. Graham, the association's second president, held that position longer than any other president, from 1939 to 1944. George A. Mullendore, our association's eleventh president (1957) and Duane Rosenkrans, Jr., were chosen because of their expertise in writing and long-term work with MACAA.

D. C. Fleming, our association's 26th president, also helped update this history. In recent years Dr. George P. Mullendore, our 31st president and Dr. Bob Williams, our 41st president have assisted with the updates.

This document is not complete, but the association officers and members felt it should be revised now. Additional historical facts will be added in the future.

To quote from the original committee, "If you are new in Extension, we want -you to know highlights of the Association's objectives and accomplishments. If you have been with Extension for a number of years, we want to remind you of the great need for continued professional improvement and cooperation. Above all, we must appreciate and lend dignity to our profession."

For this history to be meaningful, you should read, study and master its contents. Each of you will benefit, as will Extension.

Sincere appreciation is expressed to many individuals, especially Dr. Bob Williams, who have responded to requests for information. Without their cooperation, the development and revision of this history would not have been possible.

THE BEGINNING

The Mississippi Association of County Agricultural Agents was organized on November 20, 1936, in the Edwards Hotel in Jackson, Mississippi. L. I. Jones served as temporary chairman. R. M. Coman explained the need for such an organization and introduced Bright McConnell of Augusta, Georgia, vice president of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents, who outlined the objectives and program of the national organization.

The group voted to organize and elect Mr. Coman, president; T. M. Williams, vice president; and W. R. Lominick, secretary-treasurer. Dues were set at $1 annually; 75 men paid dues in 1937.

The purposes of the organization were and still are:

- § To assist members in securing additional opportunities for educational advantages.
- § To encourage a high standard of professional performance.
- § To provide a high degree of cooperation and loyalty among Extension personnel.
- § To assist in improving the effectiveness of Cooperative Extension work.
- § To cooperate in carrying out the policies and programs of the Land Grant Colleges in the United States.

Mr. Coman attended the national meeting in Chicago in December 1936. This was the first time Mississippi was represented at a national meeting. One or more associate members have attended each meeting since 1936.

In 1938, the Mississippi Association affiliated with the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

RETIREMENT

Besides professional improvement, securing retirement for Extension workers was an important part of the program, state and national, in the early years of the Mississippi Association of County Agricultural Agents. J. K. Morgan, G. L. Hales, and other Mississippi county agents made strong contributions to the national legislative effort to get Extension employees covered by Civil Service.

Both houses of Congress passed the bill extending Civil Service retirement to Extension Service workers in 1940. Mississippi Extension workers were given the opportunity to take advantage of this retirement in 1946.

In 1953, Mississippi Extension Service employees were brought under the State Retirement System. This gave Mississippi county agents and other Extension professional employees the benefits of two retirement systems. During that time, few groups of employees enjoyed such a high degree of security.

SALARIES

The Mississippi Association of County Agricultural Agents has long been recognized as a leader among similar state groups in conducting strong and effective efforts to help justify salary increases at both the state and national levels for Extension workers.

RESPONSIBLE LEADERSHIP

In connection with salary increases and other matters, the association won the respect of state Extension and University administrators. These administrators and the officers of the association meet regularly in constructive sessions.

RECOGNITION

Securing public recognition for the accomplishments of members in the performance of their official duties is an important program of state and national associations.

In 1944, Mississippi had its first winners of the Distinguished Service Award, National Association of County Agricultural Agents. They were R. M. Coman, J. W. Whitaker, C. G. Mingee, and G. L. Hales. Every year since then, several Mississippi members have received this high honor.

The association has developed other honor programs through the years, including recognition of members who have not been in Extension long enough to qualify for the Distinguished Service Award

BLACK AGENTS' ASSOCIATIONS

The Mississippi Negro County Agents Association (MNCA) merged with the MACAA in 1966. The MNCA, the National Negro County Agents Association (NNCAA), of which it was a chapter, began in the early 1940s with the black agents meeting at predominantly black colleges throughout the South, Middle West, and a few border states. Dan Lindsay of Yazoo City was the first president of the Mississippi organization. Many effective programs of professional improvement and service were planned and conducted on state and national levels.

Under the leadership of Charles Burton of Greenville, the state association brought an African student to the United States to be educated. He was Joseph Keneiyeau from Kenya, who received his B. S. from Alcorn A&M College, M.S. from Iowa State University, and Ph. D. from Oklahoma State University.

Mississippi hosted the NNCAA four times: Vicksburg in 1959; McComb, 1960; Mississippi Valley State in 1961 and also in Jackson.

Ira D. Thompson of Cleveland was president of the NNCAA in 1964. Other Mississippians with national responsibilities included J. C. Dunbar of Port Gibson, public relations officer for 10 years; and Milton E. Dean of Louisville and R. C. Paige of Brookhaven, each of who served terms of assistant secretary.

The Mississippi County Agents' Quartet was organized in 1949. It performed at several meetings of the NNCAA, after the merger at the meeting of the NACAA when Ansel Estess of Mississippi was president, and at national meetings of other organizations. When it performed at the NACAA meeting, the quartet was composed of Thomas M. Moman, Jr., of Mississippi State, Alphonse Marks of Magnolia, Joseph Oatis of Hattiesburg, and Eugene McLeod of Prentiss.

Presidents of the Mississippi Chapter, in order, were Dan Lindsay of Yazoo City, Garrett Grey of Collins, R. M. Mackie of Canton, Andrew Graves of Forest, Charles Burton of Greenville, Milton E. Dean of Louisville, Chester W. Owens of Jackson, Robert Cooper of Greenville, James Williams of Kosciusko, Sam Hilton of Greenwood, and Alphonse Marks of Magnolia.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS

R. M. Coman, first MACAA president, served three years, 1935-38. The president serving the longest was G. L. Hales, 1939-44.

In 1953, a rotation by districts was started; each district had a president every four years.

Annual dues rose from $1 in 1936 to $2 in 1942, $6 in 1946, $10 in 1974, $35 in 1982, $50 in 1992, to $65 in 2001.

Specialists became eligible for the Distinguished Service Award in 1964 C. M. Chafee was the first selected.

In 1972, specialists became eligible to serve as officers. George P Mullendore was elected treasurer.

In 1973, Alphonse Marks became the first black member of the association to receive the Distinguished Service Award.

Teresa Forrest became the first female member of the association in 1977. The constitution was amended December 4, 1972, to extend membership to any professional worker.

NATIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES

One Mississippian has served as president of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. Another Mississippian has served as secretary of the National Association. Others have served as chairmen of national committees, as directors, or appeared in other capacities at national meetings. Highlights of these activities follow:

1967

Ansel Estess, county agent of Walthall County, was elected president of the NACAA. He had previously served as vice president and as Southern Regional director. Highlights of his term included holding the first "professional improvement" sessions during the annual meeting, developing an Extension career brochure for youth, initiating the public information awards program and making contacts to secure sponsorship for other awards programs. In addition, public relations programs were conducted with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Committee on Policy, national farm organizations, and large corporations.

1950-51

W. R. Lominick, county agent in Warren County, served as director for the Southern Region of NACAA.

1950

W. R. Thompson, Extension agronomist, spoke at the annual meeting. With unusual visual aids, he described the Mississippi pasture program that had national influence on grasslands development.

THE CODE OF ETHICS NACAA

My professional standards shall have in them a note of understanding for our common humanity. My work, ambitions, and relations shall always cause me to take into consideration my highest duties as a member of society.

In every position of business life, in every responsibility that comes before me, my chief thought shall be to fill that position and discharge that responsibility so that when have finished each task I shall have lifted the level of human ideals and achievements a little higher than found it.

In view of this, hold that fundamental in the code of ethics for county Extension agents are the following duties:

First: To consider my vocation worthy and as affording me distinct opportunity to serve society.

Second: To improve myself, increase my efficiency, and enlarge my service

Third: To realize that I am a professional person that wants to succeed, but that I am first an ethical person and wish no success that is not founded on the highest justice and morality

Fourth: To use my endeavors to the standard of my vocation, and so to conduct my affairs that others in my profession may find it wise, profitable, and conducive to happiness to emulate my example.

Fifth: To strive always to expand my circle of friends by functioning as a true friend in a large way.

Sixth: To hold that my efforts to gain prestige or position at the expense of a fellow agent or a fellow worker, or failure to give proper credit to others for their accomplishments, shall be deemed highly unethical. To cooperate with other county, state, and federal agencies established to serve the people in agriculture and home economics both rural and urban.

Seventh: To respect and hold in high esteem science in all its phases, bearing in mind that any expression showing lack of appreciation of any science lessens so much the prestige of our particular branch of service.

Eighth: To recognize that Experiment Station and USDA findings constitute professional authority in agriculture, to recognize with the highest respect the opinion of those men who have established themselves as authorities in this branch of science.

Ninth: To show the highest type of loyalty to state universities, USDA, our local, state, and national government and to uphold their ideals and policies.

Tenth: To hold in highest esteem the callings of both rural and urban activities including farming, urban and youth development programs, and homemaking. To make available our educational services to all farm and rural people and to all urban people of the counties as far as possible.

Eleventh: To appreciate the constructive efforts, the sacrifices, the sturdy work, and the social value of the nation of both the rural and urban men, women, and youth of our nation.

Twelfth: To recognize that the development of leadership and the building of communities is the highest service can render as a county Extension agent.

Thirteenth: To maintain an open mind, seeking always to understand the viewpoints of others, especially those of our colleagues and our constituents.

Fourteenth: To not engage in any activity which will interfere with the proper fulfillment of my professional duties and bring discredit to my office. Will not assume political leadership or actively participate in the promotion of any political party or movement or any candidate for election to public office. Such restriction does not apply to voting.

Fifteenth: To support and contribute to strengthening my State or Regional and National Association of County Agricultural Agents in their efforts to improve and advance the Extension Service Program for the betterment of our nation.
